

Russia. November 1987

The beasts of pray assault you.
They tear at your heart.
You feel pain – it seems unending.

It will last many years,
But it will not be unending.
Its grip will not last,
For I the Lord will weaken it at last.

Powers and principalities pass away
But I will never pass away.
I am eternal - the sun of righteousness.

Despite the pain, look up to me.
Call on my name, and I will answer you.

Do not try to placate the beast.
Do not lie down with it.
It is from the evil one, and I alone deal with him.
Pray to me and I will deliver you.
In the fullness of time, I will answer you.

Now you are passing through the waters of tribulation.
Hold fast to me.
This is my word to you - hold fast, stand firm!
Do not yield your ground, even if it costs you everything.
In the trials that are coming to you, I will guard your young ones.
I will guard your loved ones. Even though you go to the darkest place,
Still I will be with you.

I need some of you in the dark places, so that my light may shine through you.
Remember, I am the eternal one. I will not forsake you.

Do not have a high regard for the kings of this world. They are passing away.
When they are taken from you, shake them off as if they were refuse.
Invest all your treasure in love and obedience to me.

Your land will not forever be blighted.
The time will come when your land will call to me again, and I will answer,
Though there is much tribulation first.

The winter of your soul will pass. It will pass.
Look again to me.